

Elaine Westwood with Babs Scarlett, Kathy Mills, Mark Beaumont Thomas and Edwina Silver.

Martin Goodyear with Clive Mason and Jon Lloyd.

Cara Ghezoli with Joe Lucey and Julie Kelly.

Hunt is on for top Midlands businesses

The hunt has begun for the top businesses in the Midlands.

The official launch of the Midlands Business Awards 2009, for which the awards ceremony takes place at the NEC Hilton Metropole in January, has taken place with an official reception attended by winners, finalists, judges and sponsors from this year's event.

The awards, run by Leamington-based UK Special Events, this time include a new category of Midlands Business University of the Year, reflecting the contribution that academia makes in supporting business in the region, and an accolade for the Midlands exporter of the year.

The 2008 awards attracted hundreds of entries from across the Midlands region from a variety of enterprises, ranging from financial services to manufacturing and Harj Sandher, MD of UK Special Events, is confident of even greater levels of interest this time.

Entry forms and further information can be found at www.midlandsbusinessawards2009.co.uk

Above: Jon Lloyd with Lisa Stimpson, Dhiren Katwa, Sam Thiara and Averil Smith.
Left: Ivan Vickers with Sam thiara Warren Cass and Trevor Price.

Mark Beaumont Thomas.

Jon Lloyd.

Sarah-Beth Roper with Amanda Barnes and Lisa Stimpson.

Clive Mason with John Cave, Harj Sandher, Joe Lucey and Marco Foelske.

Leanne Perry with Warren Cass and Emma Gladwin.