A TAMWORTH IT company is carrying the torch for the town after making it through to the final of the 2013 Midlands Business Awards.

Quiss Technology is the only firm in the area to be represented at the awards, having been shortlisted in the Midlands service provider of the year category.

The business began life back in 1988 at the dawn of the information technology revolution and now helps clients to improve the performance of their organisations through IT infrastructure, expert advice and practical support.

Harj Sandher, managing director of awards organiser, Special Events, said: "The quality of the entrants has grown year on year since we began them and this year has continued the trend.

"Our independent panel of judges has had its work cut out in shortlisting the finalists.

"The choice of enterprises they have selected shows how diverse the awards are in seeking out the best talent from around the region."

The winners will be revealed at a gala dinner and awards ceremony on February 1 at the NEC Hilton Metropole Hotel.
